DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 2-21 have been rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Innis, 4712389 in view of Ferrara, 4305262 and Logan, 2003/0136149.

Innis discloses a connector in the form of a thread or a chain (14 and abstract), a lock (15), a tubular decorative element (11) with a cross-through opening (12,13) to pass the connector (figure 2), wherein the tubular element is made from silver or gold (abstract). Innis fails to disclose a plurality of tubular decorative elements strung on the chain along with other decorative elements in the form of settings with stones.

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art to add a second tubular element to the chain in order to allow the wearer to place a second type of flower in the tubular element to further enhance the beauty of the necklace. Furthermore, the courts have noted that a duplication of parts is obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art.

Ferrara discloses that it is old and well known to place decorative elements on a chain to beautify the chain. Logan discloses that it is well known to place decorative elements (12,14) between two other identical beads (16) on a chain in order to separate the beads and to produce an appealing pattern to the wearer. Therefore, it would have been obvious to place decorative elements with gemstones on Innis's necklace in order to separate the two tubular elements (flower holders) to prevent the flowers from becoming tangled, while beautifying the necklace.

Regarding claims 2-16, 20 and 21, Innis fails to disclose a corrugated or faceted surface or any of the other shapes or finishes claimed on the tubular elements. Note that the courts have found that matters relating to ornamentation only, which have no mechanical function, cannot be relied upon to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. In re Seid, 161 F.2d 229, 73 USPQ 431 (CCPA 1947). Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art to change the shape or surface finish of the tubular elements to produce a different visually appearing look to the tubular element.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
